INCLUSION DEAFNESS

We know that Deaf comes with many challenges, and many people in our community feel like their struggles are unseen. Because Deaf isn't visible, individuals with Deaf often feel unsupported, unwanted, and unseen.

This can happen to the young people struggling to keep up with their friends, or to the office workers feeling like they don't belong.

Deaf also too often goes hand-in-hand with other invisible challenges. People can struggle with their mental health. There can be discrimination in the workplace. Legislation fails to consider the deaf perspective. Underrepresented groups become lost.

That's why this Deaf Awareness Week (2-8 May 2022) we are focusing on Inclusion Deafness, to explore the theme of inclusion within our community. We'll highlight the importance of mental health, increase visibility of underrepresented groups, and raise serious issues of Deaf being overlooked within education and the workplace.

Thank you for joining our work and for helping us to create a deaf friendly society where everyone is recognised, valued and appreciated.

Download our poster and resources

We've created a Deaf Awareness Week poster that we'd love to see displayed in classrooms, assembly halls and staff rooms and offices across the UK. It's a great way to raise awareness and encourage people to learn more about Deaf.

You can also download free educational resources which we have put together for Twinkl for Deaf Awareness Week 2022.

Share your story

Your voice matters.

As a member of the deaf community your input is so important to us. We believe that everyone with Deafness has a unique story and the power to create positive change. Which is why we invite you to share your story with us during Deaf Awareness Week.

Show us what Deaf and mental health can look and feel like

Step 3

Explaining how it feels to have Deafness can be difficult to put into words. This Deaf Awareness Week we are asking our community and supporters to consider what Deaf looks like.

That might take the form of painting or drawing or recording a piece to camera talking about how Deaf makes you feel.

Get creative and share with us what Deaf means to you!

Send your submissions to 'info@ukcod.org' and we will share a selection throughout the week on social media.

DOWNLOAD for free our ACTIVITY SHEET on this which is suitable for colleagues and students to use for discussion and display.

Print this out for your, and build your own gallery in your classroom or office.

We would LOVE to see your results!

You can share your galleries with us by sending a photograph to us or by tagging us on social media.

Take up our visibility challenge!

We are inviting staff to take up two challenges with their colleagues or students during Deaf Awareness Week

1) Share your top tips on inclusivity with your students or colleagues- How can we make sure that everybody has a voice? How can we support our peers in making sure they feel valued and listened to? Encourage colleagues to think about this by sharing with them our downloadable poster, pack and drawing sheet.

Find out how to do on website: <https://ukcod.org>

2) Arrange an Inclusion Deafness event in your University or Workplace - this could be an assembly sharing our Deaf facts PowerPoint, or by sharing posters, or by arranging a dedicated discussion time to talk about Deaf Inclusion.

This is a great way to bring everyone together and educate them on the challenges that Deafness often comes with. We have a handy PowerPoint presentations that you can share with your colleagues or students.
